

Review

With the expansion of Banking without Riba, bankers offered new tools to provide their customers with better services. In the same way, the Maskan Bank since 2005 has issued a mortgage facility securities. The most important point of a Banking without Riba is its adaptation to jurisprudence. This paper, by analyzing and descriptive method and using the data of the bank, surveys issues of the securities. In this study, first, the process and elements of the securities will be identified and then applied to the jurisprudential topics.

the securities has the status of legal finance and from the three types of legal fiqh of the property entitled "Right". The proper source for paying these securities to the depositor is the depositor's repayment as a partner on the bank's account.